THE WIDOW OLIVER'S CASE.

In the Supreme Court, in General Term,

yesterday, the case of Widow Oliver against Ex-Senator Simon Cameron was called. Mr. Kiddle, the widow's ex-attorney, but on the Senator's side on this trial, said that one of his colleagues, Col. W. A. Cook, was dangerously sick, and the other, General Butler, was far away. The former he hoped would be better by the time the case was reached in the term commencing next Monday, and the latter was expected here on the 25th. The case was therefore continued for the next term, with the understanding that it would be called at the end of this or the beginning of next month.

THE ISTHMIAN QUESTION.
The Star of this evening says: "The Navy Department has information that the United States steamer Adams has established a coaling station on the west side of Isthmus of Panama at Gulf of Dulce. The Kearsage has established a similar station on the east side of the Isthmus. Advice which are contained in the Press dispatches about the movements of the United States vessels in the Isthmus waters continue to say that the local governments are indignant at the course which is being pursued by this country and are loud in their denunciation. This is not true.

"The same influence that instigates all that comes from Panama on this subject—the Panama Railroad Company—is now very busy in trying to create the impression that international complications may arise from what has been and is being done by the United States. It misrepresents most completely both the intentions of this Government and the manner in which these intentions are carried out, and it can be stated on the best authority that nothing has been done that is objectionable or likely to lead to any complication, and, further, that nothing will be done that would tend in that direction.

"A coaling station has been established on either side of the Isthmus, one at Chiriqui bay, and the other at the Gulf of Dulce. The United States has coaling stations all over the world. The advisability of having them at the points recently selected is evident. If no government is interfered with and no government raises objection to their establishment, it will be a hard matter for the Panama Railroad Company to make the public believe that the United States is interfering in an unwarranted manner in the affairs of the Isthmus.

"There is no doubt that the sea coaling stations would not have been established at so early a date if subject of an inter-oceanic canal had not assumed its present importance. Establishment of a coaling station was contemplated as nearly as last summer in reference to its files of the Star will show. Steps have, however, been taken to prevent any complications. The whole matter will be made public at early date. The Panama Railroad Company is bound up with De Lesseps' scheme for a canal and is doing all it can to head off anything that looks like encouraging a canal by any other route. The United States has taken no steps in behalf of any particular route or an proposed inter-oceanic railway or ship canal."
